HEALT DAYLABORE ON LOCATION TO

STREET LEVEL HEALTH PROJECT

MARIANA CASTRO

B.A. IN BIOLOGY, UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

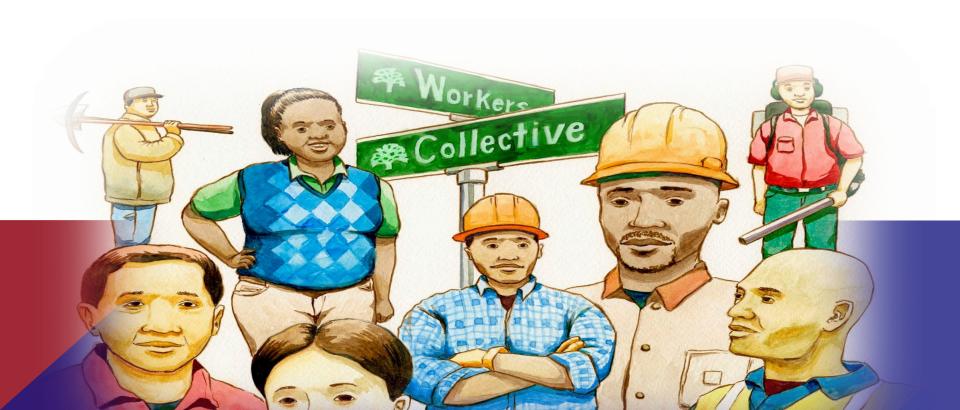

&

RUBI RAMIREZ

B.A IN PUBLIC HEALTH STUDIES, JOHN HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

BACKGROUND

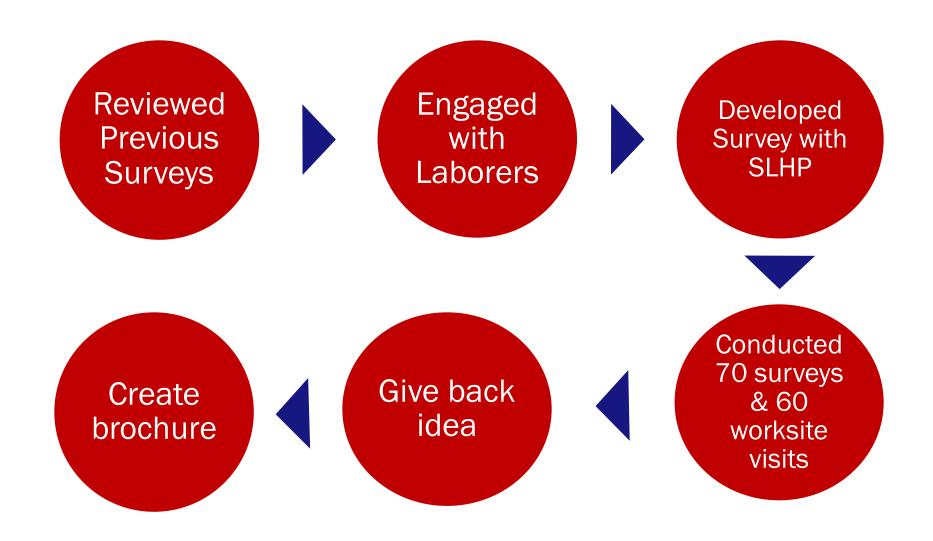

- ☐ About Street Level Health Project
- □ Day Laborers
- ☐ Home Depot/Survey context

OBJECTIVES

- ☐ Create authentic relationships with day laborers.
- ☐ Collect data about the dangers and challenges day laborers face while awaiting jobs on street corners.
- ☐ Support day laborers by creating materials that promote H&S on their daily waiting periods.

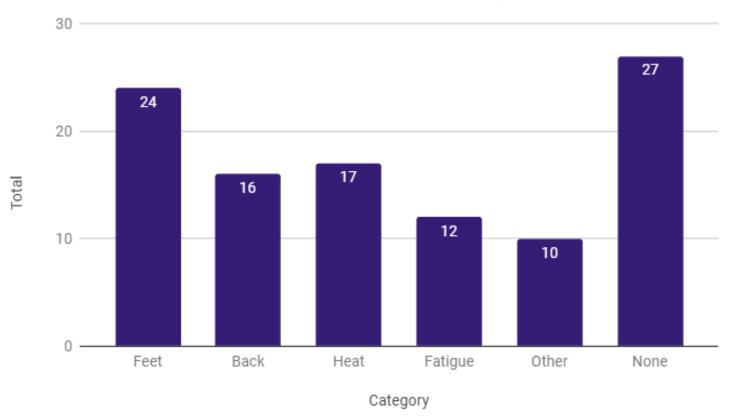

Methods

Health Hazards Identified

3 major hazards include long standing (Ave. 5.9 hours), heat and loud BART noises (Ave. 92.5 decibels).

Health Problems Related to Waiting for Work

GIVE BACK PRODUCT

- Comprehensive brochure:
 - Best H&S practices and stretches for long standing periods
 - Labor rights
 - Immigrant rights
 - List of resources
- Low Spanish literacy level and highly visual
- To be distributed during outreach and workers weekly gatherings

CHALLENGES

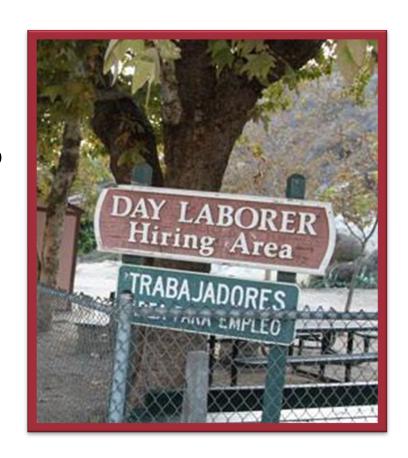

- Language Barrier (Native Mam language)
- > Trust and Credibility Issues
- > Peer Pressure
- > Time

SUCCESSES

- □ Identified true needs of community and organization
- ☐ 70 surveys in 6 days
- ☐ Comprehensive gift back project

Recommendations

- Remove old Day Laborer Hiring Area signs for areas no longer used and place new signs in active areas.
- Add shaded spaces to waiting areas to decrease sun and heat exposure.
- □ Add benches to waiting areas to mitigate long standing hours.
- ☐ Train day laborers on best H&S practices to avoid injuries caused by long periods of standing.

PERSONAL REFLECTION

"It was eye-opening to see where health and safety intersects with social justice"

- Mariana Castro

"It's inspiring to see the multidimensional levels of resources provided by Street Level Health."

- Rubi Ramirez

Acknowledgements

Street Level Health Project, specially Abad, Gabby, Edgar, Don Francisco, Maria & Nelsy.

NIOSH, AOEC, LOHP and all individuals at OHIP who supported us throughout the program.

All of the workers who participated in our project and shared their experiences and time with us.

The Kazan McClain Partners Foundation for making this all possible.